

Mary Jo Marquis

KBIL board member

With more than 25 years of experience in nonprofit program development and fundraising, Mary Jo brings deep expertise in organizational growth, community engagement, and strategic planning. She founded and served as Executive Director of a nonprofit community education organization focused on the arts and sciences, offering programs for children and adults alike. With additional experience in business development and marketing, she combines professional skill with a lifelong passion for maritime history, boating, and historic preservation—interests rooted in a family heritage of Maine shipbuilders and sea captains. She currently resides in Boothbay Harbor, where she can often be found chasing the sunrises and sunsets along the coast.
